Birth Announcements

Image by Sommessa: The Art of Birth

I woke up having contractions 7 weeks before my due date. I timed my contractions for a full 12 hours, with them getting longer, stronger, and closer together before heading to the hospital. When I got there, they gave me medicine to stop my contractions, and let my baby stay in longer to be more well-equipped for life on the outside. I was in the hospital for 4 days, receiving treatment for preeclampsia, and my contractions had stopped after my first night there. I was going to be discharged to go home and be on bedrest on the day that my water broke at 4:30am. After a whirlwind 4 hour unmedicated labor, Homer Pine Brown was born on 8/6 at 4lb 10oz, and was perfect and doing great despite being so small. Although we had planned a peaceful September home birth, our crazy August hospital birth was beautiful, and the most wonderful thing I've ever done. I am so glad to introduce this sweet little soul into the world!

Staff News

Dawn, Birthingway's Registrar, has relocated to Salem. A note from Dawn:

"I've felt so blessed to be a part of Birthingway - our mission, our community, the strength and humanity and learning and all the things we struggle with and strive for together. This is a special path for each of us, and I'm thankful for the opportunity to have shared it with you all a little while."

Birthingway's new Registrar, Sadie, has volunteered as a doula and briefly trained as a midwife, and is passionate about the respect for human rights inherent in midwifery practice. She's still not sure what she wants to be when she grows up, but loves clerical work and being an efficient cog in the machine. A native of Northern California, she's now very happy to call Portland home. While not working, she likes to spend her time knitting, learning new things, and hanging out with her partner, two adorable dogs, and one very spunky parrot.

Lauren, Birthingway's new Learning Resources Coordinator, recently earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in Community Health Education from Portland State University. Before joining Birthingway, she interned with the Breastfeeding Coalition of Oregon, and Girls Incorporated of the Pacific Northwest, causing her to realize that she is pretty much only interested in participating in organizations that are in line with her feminist and social justice values. When she is not at Birthingway, she is slinging fresh organic drinks at her juice cart job. When she isn't busy working for awesome people, she enjoys camping with her husband and corgi, sewing her own clothes, and checking out too many books at a time from the library.

After two years at Birthingway, Mel, our Outreach Coordinator, will be stepping down to pursue her developing birth photography career at Sommessa: The Art of Birth.
"My photography business has been growing and I'm looking forward to devoting more time to it! My time at Birthingway has been extremely rewarding and I value all of the amazing relationships I've made over the years. I hope to stay connected to this great group of people!"
